

DECCAN Chronicle

SANMAR GROUP'S AID REACHES CUDDALORE

Saturday 7 / January 2012

Cuddalore: The plant of the Chemplast Sanmar group in Cuddalore has been doing its bit in helping out the Thane cyclone-hit local population.

The members of the staff have been giving water off their desalination plant to help the locals tide over a severe crisis in supply of clean water. They have also been distributing rice, food packets and candles to the affected people living nearby.

The plant itself was brought back on stream in a record five days after being affected badly by the cyclone Thane, the company said in a press release.